HALLIE ERMINIE RIVES.

MISS RIVES' novel, "Hearts Courageous," entered the list of "Six Best Selling Books" in New York City the second week it was published. The literary workmanship is praised by the highest critics. The binding is unusual, and the illustrations are very attractive, being engraved on wood from drawings by A. B. WENZELL. 12mo. Price, $1.50.

FOUR ABSORBING NOVELS

THE STROLLERS

The Boston Transcript—"The Strollers" is a genuine treat, however regarded; whether as a reminiscence of bygone days, or as a portrait gallery, or as a literary composition, or as a good story well told. It is a graceful oasis in the waste of trumpery which so largely characterizes the output of literary fiction in recent years."

The Milwaukee Sentinel—"Mr. Frederic S. Isham has a good story to tell, and he tells it delightfully. . . . It is impossible in a review to convey the charm of the story."

HEARTS COURAGEOUS By MISS RIVES

"Appearing at the time when the country is honoring the memory of Rochambeau, the new novel, 'Hearts Courageous,' by Hallie Erminie Rives, possesses a live and timely interest."

A Gallant Pair of Lovers

"As for the love plot that relates how a gallant French officer, who aids the American patriots, wins the heart and hand of a lovely Virginia belle, Miss Rives's 'Hearts Courageous' is a truer picture of Colonial days than any novel of recent years. The book is delightfully illustrated by A. B. Wenzell."—Washington Post.

THE MISSISSIPPI BUBBLE

"Mr. Hough has constructed a romance more than ingenious. It is clever, fascinating, thrilling. And if it is sometimes theatrical, it is never more so than was the actual, brilliant career of historic John Law, upon which it is founded."—N. Y. World.

"For five weeks 'The Mississippi Bubble' has been reported by the bookstores as the best selling novel in New York City. The publishers have done their share in making the book attractive. The illustrations, by Henry Hutt, are unusually good, while the cover design—a silver bubble upon which is imposed the heraldic lily of France—is striking."—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE 13th DISTRICT

"Politics as it is played—that good old hide-and-seek game that the men 'inside' know so well, is to be found here. 'The 13th District' is the real thing—and Brand Whitlock put what he knew and had seen into his book, without any varnish."—Indianapolis Sentinel.

"Such a clever portrayal of practical politics—the kind the politicians recognize as their own, has never before been put into a novel. Garwood and Rankin have prototypes; indeed, we recognize all the men. And Rankin!—one of these days people will come to say that this or that politician is a regular 'Jim Rankin.'"—Chicago American.

THE SPENDERS

A TALE OF THE
THIRD GENERATION
By
HARRY LEON WILSON

THIS is a strong, spirited, brilliant story of men and women of to-day, of America East and West, of the people of the mining camps and the gay society of the metropolis. The author has drawn a wonderfully vivid picture of conditions social and commercial, as they exist, especially of the life in New York. Percival Bines, the central figure, Avice Milbrey, the type of America's most stalwart girl, and "Uncle Peter" of the first generation are characters naturally so interesting and typical and so finely delineated that the story, with due reservation, is predicted to be the novel of 1902.

JEZEBEL

A ROMANCE IN THE DAYS WHEN
AHAB WAS KING OF ISRAEL
By LAFAYETTE MCLAWS
Author of "When the Land was Young"

AUTHORS are just beginning to realize the possibilities for romantic, dramatic story-making in the use of the unexampled literature of the Old Testament. Miss McLaws has finely grasped such an opportunity in the romance "Jezebel," in which she makes a heroine of that famous woman and queen, whose very name is one to conjure with, and who, in the pages of this book, stands forth as one of the fascinatingly strong feminine characters of history, in a brilliant setting of court life during the days of the greatness of ancient Israel, when Elijah was its prophet and the worship of strange gods aroused his ire.

NOTES IN SEASON.

JOHN LANE will publish on the 24th inst. "An Ode on the Day of the Coronation of King Edward VII." by William Watson. Besides the regular edition there will be an edition de luxe, limited to 250 copies in this country, printed on Japanese vellum, and bound in buckram.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish on July 2 Richard Harding Davis's new book, "Ransom's Folly." The book is already having large advance sales, and will doubtless be one of the best known of the summer. They have made arrangements to publish in this country J. M. Barrie's new story, "The Little White Bird."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce besides the definitive edition of the complete works of Walt Whitman and the Sunnyside edition of Irving's works, already noticed by us, a Reader's edition of the works of Poe, edited by Professor Charles F. Richardson, of Dartmouth College, with illustrations by Frederick Simpson Coburn.

THE BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY have secured a charming book for children in L. Frank Baum's "The Life and Adventures of Santa Claus." The book will be a quarto of 225 pages, and will contain twenty full-page illustrations in colors by Mary Seymour Cowles Clarke, besides numerous decorations. The price has been fixed at $1 net, instead of at $1.50, as was first contemplated.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish shortly a work on "Savings and Savings Institutions," by James Henry Hamilton, professor of sociology in Syracuse University, who has written the book as the outcome of a study made of municipal and post-office savings banks in Germany. The subject, he says, seems to him the most important one within the field of social economics and applied sociology. He discusses savings and insurance, building and loan associations, different kinds of savings banks, postal savings banks in England and on the Continent and in other countries.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish on the 25th inst. "Belshazzar," a story of Babylon, by William Stearns Davis, author of "A Friend of Cæsar" who has woven an exciting tale about the story of the writing on the wall at the feast of Belshazzar, which foretold the doom of the Babylonian kings. At the same time they will publish a new book by Booker T. Washington, entitled "Character Building," a collection of addresses delivered by the author to the students of Tuskegee Institute. They have in preparation a new bird book by Mrs. Doubleday ("Neltje Blanchan,") entitled "How to Attract the Birds."

A. C. McCLURG & Co. will publish at once, under the title of "Religion, Agnosticism and Education," a number of essays by Bishop Spalding, of Peoria, universally known as one of the most intelligent essayists of modern times. They have in preparation a work on "The Standard Light Operas," by George P. Upton, whose works on "Standard Operas," etc., have become classics; also, a work on "Herbert Spencer, the Man, the Scientist and the Philosopher," by Dr. Charles H. Riebert, of Stanford University, with an introduction by Dr. David Starr Jordan. Their announcements of new fiction for the fall of 1902 include a new book of short stories of Chicago business life by Will Payne, with very clever illustrations by Thomas Fogarty, to be called "On Fortune's Road;" a historical novel, "The Holland Wolves," by J. Breckenridge Ellis, illustrated by the Kinneys, whose remarkable illustrations for "The Thrall of Leif the Lucky" have established their reputation; and an illustrated edition of the popular romance of Indian Oregon, "The Bridge of the Gods."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (16mo: 20 cm.); S. (32mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Th. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. 48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights.

Abbott, J. H. M. Tommy Cornstalk: being some account of the less notable features of the South African war from the point of view of the Australian ranks. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1902. 10+264 p. D. cl., $2.

"Cornstalks" is the nickname bestowed upon the people of New South Wales, on account of their lankness and wiriness. The author, late Corporal First Australian Horse, "has striven to show other Australians, who had not the good fortune to serve in Africa, what some phases of campaigning were like as viewed from the standpoint of the Australian ranks, and has occasionally ventured to say, as an Australian, how things have impressed him."

Belloc, Hilaire. The path to Rome. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1902. c. 15+448 p. il. O. cl., net, $2.

Describes a walk of six hundred miles taken last summer from the town in Lorraine, where the author was once in garrison, to Rome, illustrating in some eighty sketches the scenes through which he passed. The book is not only a description of his journey, but contains also a number of such anecdotes and stories as occur to him, or are suggested by his adventures.

Best, Noel Rice. The college man in doubt. Phil., Westminster Press, 1902. c. 79 p. D. cl., net, 50 c.

"To consider the nature, cause, and influence of the college man's tendencies to doubt, and particularly to speak with the student, in brotherly way, about averting the danger and appropriating the profit of such an epoch in his intellectual life" may, the author trusts, be considered sufficient reason for this work.

Bible. Nelson's Sunday-school scholars' Bible; with practical helps and a new Bible catechism written by prominent Sunday-school workers, and ed. by A. F. Schauffler, D.D. N. Y., T: Nelson & Sons, 1902. 12°, cl., 55 c.; French flex. mor., 75 c.; French mor., $1.

Binkley, Christian. Sonnets and songs for a house of days. San Francisco, Cal., A. M. Robertson, [1902.] c. 6+178 p. D. bds., net, $1.25.

The title of the book is suggested by Chaucer's "A house of fame." The parts of widest appeal are "In distant fields," a group of sonnets filled with the glamour of childhood; "Enchanted ground," love sonnets rich in color and music; and especially "By the fireside," songs with a sweet home atmosphere around them. The human note in these songs is continued in the simple lyrics of the group "Stops of various quills"—deepened in "The wedding gown" and others.

Cotes, Mrs. Sara Jeannette, [Mrs. Everard Cotes.] Those delightful Americans. N. Y., Appleton, 1902. [My.] c. 2+353 p. D. cl., $1.50.

Mrs. Cotes's novel is a new "social departure," wherein English travellers sketch a summer of lively experiences in the United States. The author gives a fresh and witty picture of America and Americans as seen through English eyes. The impressions of New York and of country-house life are noted with a humor and vivacity and occasional naive self-betrays on the part of the visiting strangers that are constantly entertaining.

"The object of the present work is to present a consecutive history of the Mormons, from the day of their origin to the present writing, and as a secular, not as a religious narrative. The search has been for facts, not for moral deductions, except as these present themselves in the course of the story. Since the usual weapon which the heads of the Mormon church use to meet anything unfavorable regarding their organization is a general denial, this narrative has been made to rest largely on Mormon sources of information."—Preface.

"The original intent of the author was to make a revision of Scudder's 'Diseases of children,' but this plan was abandoned, and instead of a revision the old work was used as a basis for a new one." While in some places, comparatively few changes have been made, in others, for example part third, the entire work has been partially rewritten. An effort has been made to have the work harmonize with the consensus of medical opinion.

Slight space has been given to the ancestry of Marquette or to his early years in France. The author's chief object has been to depict the great explorer's work in the western wilderness. Whenever practicable, "Jesuit Relations" and Marquette's own journals have been freely drawn upon. It has thus been sought to convey a picture of the conditions surrounding Marquette, delineated in large measure by himself and his contemporaries.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE authorities of the St. Louis Exposition have determined to be cosmopolitan in regard to the community of the Fourth Estate. On a date to be arranged during the run of the World's Fair there will be held in St. Louis a Congress of Editors. The gathering will be international and cosmopolitan in its character, and will be composed of the chiefs of the world's press. Special buildings are being erected for their use. There is to be a club-house, fitted up with all the comforts of a big West-end club. In this country the idea has received the warmest support, and already a circle has been formed. On the Continent, too, the subject has made headway, and, if practicable, it is believed that the International Association of Editors will arrange to hold their annual conference at St. Louis.

A NEW story by Rudyard Kipling is to appear in an early number of Scribner's Magazine, and it is one of the boldest and most brilliant expressions of Mr. Kipling's genius. With the exception of a few sketches relating to experiences in South Africa, no short story has come from Mr. Kipling for several years. The title "Wireless" gives a hint as to the modern developments in electric phenomena that suggested the story to Mr. Kipling, but it contains in it no intimation of the amazing originality and skill with which he has worked it out. "The Fortunes of Oliver Horn," F. Hopkinson Smith's serial, will be concluded in the August Scribner's, and will make way for J. M. Barrie's new story, "The Little White Bird; or, Adventures in Kensington Gardens." The scene of the new serial is laid in London. The leading figures are a newly married couple and a whimsical elderly person suggestive of Charles Lamb, who narrates the story.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

"SALE RECORDS, a Priced and Annotated Record of London Book Auctions," is the title of a purely trade publication which will commence with the number for June to August 31, 1902. It will be published by Karslake & Co., of 61 Charing Cross Road, London, quarterly, at the subscription price of 6s. for the year. It is to be supplied to "bonafide members of the trade only."

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

JUNE 21, 1902.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications. All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CONVENTION ECHOES.

WHILE the American Booksellers' Association was in session, it struck us as a remarkable coincidence that the first trade organization, The American Company of Booksellers, should have been formed precisely one hundred years before, in 1801, and should have held its second and most important annual meeting during the second and third weeks in June, 1802, and also have held it in New York. The trade was impelled to combine a century ago by almost the identical conditions that impel combination to-day. Unfair competition, overproduction, the danger of circulating libraries and the like were dangers that seemed as real to our forefathers as they appear to their descendants. Then, as now, unselfish, public-spirited men, at great sacrifice, called into life certain reforms that ameliorated the condition of those among their colleagues who were less able to take care of themselves. The first book trade paper—The Literary Reporter—and the first book trade catalogue—"Catalogue of all the Books printed in the United States"—were also established by this Association, both of them in 1804, and continued during its existence, which seems to have been definitely until 1816. In 1824 another attempt was made to organize the trade. This effort, however, only resulted in the establishing of the Trade Sales, an institution that, after the Civil War, at least, helped more to demoralize the book business than any other one agency except the lack of a copyright law. In 1855 the Book Publishers' Association was formed, and was fairly successful until the war, after which it unavoidably fell into desuetude.

Again, in 1873, the trade roused itself and combined as the American Book Trade Association, giving vent to its feelings concerning the abuse of discount in four rousing big meetings—at Cincinnati, Put-in-Bay, Niagara and Philadelphia—after which, for the lack of cohesion among the members, there came a collapse, and the trade found itself again in a "slough of despond." The struggles of the trade during the intervening quarter of a century—between the collapse of the old book trade association and the organization of the trade as it exists at present—are too well known to the bookseller of to-day, either by hearsay or by actual experience, to need rehearsal here. They have been severe enough to bring about two important reforms—the abolishing of the Trade Sales and the enacting of an international copyright law. They have, furthermore, affected the publisher and retailer so nearly alike that the two branches have been brought closer together for mutual protection, and have been induced to compare notes and consider grievances. We trust that the struggles have left a deep enough impression upon the memory of all to open their eyes to the necessity of close and honest co-operation, moderation in demanding privileges, a strict enforcement of duties, and a fair consideration of the rights of others. On such foundation, and on such foundation only, will the trade as a whole succeed and prosper!

DESIGNATING RESTRICTED BOOKS.

THE American Publishers' Association has issued a circular to its members, recommending certain symbols to designate in future trade lists the protected net books, old or net books not covered by the rules, also net fiction published under the rules of the Publishers' Association. It is perhaps immaterial what the symbol may be, so long as the same symbol is uniformly adopted by every member to stand for the same thing, and it is to be hoped, for the sake of all interests involved, that the recommendations be adopted by the publishing trade as speedily as possible. In our own case, we shall adopt the new system with the beginning of our new volume, the first number of which will be dated July 5.

The recommendation is worded as follows:

Since the formation of the Association need has been felt for a uniform system of indicating on publishers' catalogues, etc., books which are subject to its rules.

To meet this need the following method has been adopted by the Board of Directors, and members are respectfully requested to conform to same:

1. Net books published under the rules—the double asterisk  to precede the title and the word net to follow the price.

2. Fiction (not net) published under the rules—the dagger † to precede the title.

3. Old or new net books not covered by the rules—the single asterisk * to precede the title and the word net to follow the price.

After the transacting of certain routine business and the appointing of committees to prepare a programme for the following day, announcement was made that representatives of Harper & Brothers had arrived and were ready to conduct the members of the Association to Franklin Square. The convention thereupon adjourned until Tuesday morning, the 17th inst. Half a dozen automobiles that were in waiting then took the majority of those present to the establishment of Harper & Brothers, where, guided by competent cicerones, they were shown from composing room to electrotyping and photographing rooms, to press room, bindery, stock room, to the subscription and other departments, being enabled step by step to watch the progress of making and despatching a book and magazine, for which this house has such ample facilities. Yet, ample as they would appear to an outsider, it was stated that it was necessary to send out work to seventeen other establishments in order to keep up with the demands made upon the house.

The object lesson being concluded, the party were conducted to the offices of the firm, where they were welcomed by Colonel Harvey, J. Henry Harper, Mark Twain, W. D. Howells, John Kendrick Bangs, F. T. Leigh, Robert W. Chambers, Hamlin Garland, Ernest Ingersoll, James McArthur, Hamblen Sears, Edward W. Townsend, D. A. Rogers, Will Carleton, T. A. Janvier, Charles H. Haswell, Van Tassel Sutphen and Henry E. Rood. After luncheon had been served Mr. Clarence Wolcott, in the name of the American Booksellers' Association, thanked Colonel Harvey for the compliment paid to the Association, and for the splendid entertainment so generously provided. He hoped that the kindly feeling expressed on this occasion might endure forever. Colonel Harvey responded in a most happy manner. Among the other speakers were Mark Twain, W. D. Howells, John Kendrick Bangs, T. A. Janvier, F. T. Leigh, A. Growoll, E. O. Chapman, and Hamlin Garland.

The second day's session was somewhat late in beginning business, and was not so well attended as the first day's session. The Committee on Nominations recommended the names of the present officers, Executive Board and Advisory Committee with the exception of two names in the Advisory Board. The Committee's report was unanimously adopted. The report of the Committee on Resolutions was next read, and its discussion took up the better part of the remainder of the session. We expect in our next issue to print a full report of the proceedings of the Conference and so need mention here only that the two most important resolutions were those requesting the American Publishers' Association to extend the time limit of protected net books to a period of at least two years and to five years if the demand for the book should warrant it, and to abolish all discounts to libraries. On both questions the opinion was almost evenly divided.

The annual dinner was attended by a large number and was a very enjoyable affair. The president, Clarence Wolcott, acted as toast master and introduced the speakers in a most happy manner. Mr. Charles Scribner, president of the Publishers' Association, the guest of honor, was the first speaker and responded to the toast of the American Publishers' Association. Harry Gregory, of Providence, spoke of "Our Profession," Charles W. Burrows, of Cleveland, read an interesting paper on the "Distribution of Books," Charles A. Burkhardt spoke for "The New York Bookseller," A. C. Walker, of Rochester, briefly touched on "Some Hopes Deferred," W. Millard Palmer, the present Mayor of Grand Rapids, Mich., spoke of "Our Friends the Librarians." Simon Brentano and John H. Dingman spoke interestingly of some conditions of the book trade and bookselling, after which the gathering broke up.

IMITATING WATERMARKS IN PAPER.

ONE of the features of the extensive forgeries of Bank of England notes recently brought to light was the clever way in which the watermark had been imitated. "We have not heard," says the London Stationery Trades Journal, "of any explanation being offered in regard to the method employed in the production of the forgeries, but it is very possible that photographic processes played a prominent part, and in this connection we are reminded of a method of making or reproducing watermarks which was invented by the late W. B. Woodbury, the inventor of the Woodbury type process. He found that if paper is placed in contact with a gelatine relief, such as is used for the latter process, and hydraulic pressure applied, a watermark effect is communicated to the paper in the form of the design which was on the relief. These reliefs are produced by photographic means, hence it is quite easy to copy any existing watermark. We have heard the story told—the truth of which we cannot vouch for—that Mr. Woodbury, in the enthusiasm occasioned by his discovery, copied the watermark of a Bank of England note, and sent it to the Governor with an offer to sell the monopoly of his process to the bank. Instead of the favorable reply he expected, he received an immediate visit from a couple of officials from the bank, who told him he had rendered himself liable to penal servitude for attempting to forge a bank note, and that he might thank his stars he was not under arrest. He was requested to deliver up the plates used in the production of the watermark, and never to attempt such a thing again."

BOOKBINDINGS.

Two interesting works on bookbinding are promised for the fall. The one will treat of bibliography in the United States, a branch of the subject that has hitherto been almost overlooked by the authorities on bookbinding. The work is being prepared by William Loring Andrews, and will bear the imprint of Dodd, Mead & Co. The work, it is needless to say, will be gotten up lavishly and will be adequately illustrated.

The other work is entitled "Historical Bookbindings of Cambridge," and will be published by subscription only by the De La More Press, 299 Regent Street, London. The work is intended to present a concise, accurate, and detailed description of all the ornamental bookbindings in the college and public libraries of the University of Cambridge. It will contain a large number of reproductions in color, as well as some illustrations in colotype. An important feature of the book will be accurate drawings of those stamps and tools which the authors believe are likely to prove interesting, either as curious examples of ornament, or as being helpful in the identification of any particular artist's work. There will be an appendix containing references to and information concerning certain bookbinders examples of whose work are known or believed to be at Cambridge.

CARNEGIE'S SUPPORT OF BIBLIOGRAPHY.

At the session of the American Library Association held on the 17th inst., at Magnolia, Mass., the President, Dr. John S. Billings, director of the New York Public Library, announced that he had received from Andrew Carnegie a check for $100,000 as a gift to the association for the preparation and publication of reading lists, indexes, and other bibliographical and literary aid.

The American Library Association has for some years past published various indexes and library lists, among the best known being one to general literature, a bibliography of fine art and a guide to the literature of American history. It is probable that its work in this direction will be largely developed through Mr. Carnegie's gift.

The announcement of the donation was enthusiastically received. The present meeting of the association is the largest in its history, over nine hundred librarians from all parts of the country being assembled in Magnolia.

OBITUARY NOTES.

MONTGOMERY WEST, one of the best-known booksellers in Virginia, died on the 15th inst., at his home on Harvey Street, Richmond, Va. For the last five years Mr. West has been in a precarious state of health, with symptoms of internal disease that left no room for hope of his recovery, and made his battle for life, which was prolonged far beyond the limits prescribed and expected by his medical attendants, an instance of his indomitable courage and pertinacity. Montgomery West was born in Richmond, March 23, 1845. He was a son of George M. West, a noted bookseller of Richmond for many years before the war, who emigrated from Concord, N. H., early in the nineteenth century, and a great-grandson of General John Montgomery, of Haverhill, Mass., a soldier of revolutionary fame. When the Civil War broke out Mr. West joined the Otey battery and served with his command in every engagement which came in its way. To the memory of that organization he was thoroughly devoted, and he never missed a reunion of the survivors until June 10 last, when he lay on his deathbed. After the war he returned to Richmond and entered again into the book business with his uncle, Captain John M. West, under the firm name of West-Johnson & Company, which was, until eight or ten years ago, one of the largest book concerns in the South. When that firm went out of business Mr. West was for a short time with the Baughman Stationery Company, by which firm the business of the book concern had been absorbed. The loss of his eyesight and increasing feebleness compelled him to retire from active business life. He was one of the founders of the Virginia Booksellers' Association, and for a number of years a member of its Executive Committee. His wife and four children survive him. He also leaves three sisters and two brothers, one of whom, George M. West, lived until recently in Richmond.

COMMUNICATIONS.

EXTANT COPIES OF THE SHAKESPEARE
FIRST FOLIO.

108 LEXHAM GARDENS, LONDON, June 2, 1902.
To the Editor of The Publishers' Weekly.

I AM now sending to press the census of extant copies of the Shakespeare First Folio, which has occupied much of my time for a year and a half. The results form part of the preface that I am contributing to the Clarendon Press facsimile of the Chatsworth copy, which is to be published in the autumn. I am extremely anxious that my list should be as complete as possible.

A vast mass of valuable information has reached me from owners and others interested in the bibliography of the First Folio, and I gratefully acknowledge the aid that they have rendered me. My correspondents number many hundreds. Nevertheless, I believe that there are still a few owners and others able to supplement the details that I have already in hand from whom I have not yet heard. I should feel greatly indebted to any such persons if they would communicate with me at the earliest practicable date.

SIDNEY LEE.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AIKEN, S. C.—L. D. Yates, bookseller, has been succeeded by The Eagle Novelty Association, Louis H. Lowenstein manager.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Reilly & Britton, we understand, do business under two firm names. As the Madison Book Co. they carry on a publishing business, and under the name of Reilly & Britton they act as publishers' agents. Reilly & Britton now represent in the West, west of Pittsburg to the Missouri River, the following firms: Jamieson-Higgins Company and H. S. Stone & Co. In all territory east of the Missouri River, the following firms: George W. Ogilvie & Co., of Chicago; Elder & Shepard, of San Francisco; and William S. Lord, of Evanston, Ill. In addition to maintaining offices and sample room in the Dexter Building, 84 Adams Street, they also have a large warehouse and are in position to handle goods of publishers as distributing agents for the Chicago market.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COL.—Briscoe & Ammerman, booksellers, have sold out to M. Slaughter.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—At a fire in the Miller Block, on the night of May 31, the stock of H. G. Campbell, bookseller, was damaged by water to the extent of $8000. The loss was fully covered by insurance.

NEW YORK CITY.—The New York office of Herbert S. Stone & Co. has been removed from 158 Fifth Avenue to 61 Chambers Street.

NEW YORK CITY.—Spon & Chamberlain have removed to 123 Liberty Street.

PHILLIPSBURG, PA.—Frank B. Arndt has opened a book store here.

PITTSBURG, PA.—Wallace's old book store in the East Liberty district is soon to be torn down. Mr. Wallace will retire from business. For thirty years the store has been the headquarters of the book lovers and literary gossips of the East End, and not only the store but its proprietor will be missed.

PORTLAND, ME.—Anderson & Welch, the new book and stationery concern, has established itself in this city, at 568 Congress Street, and not at Skowhegan, as we were misled into reporting last week.

ROCKFORD, ILL.—The book and stationery business of C. G. Smith & Son has been sold to G. R. Warne, who will take possession as soon as an inventory can be made. The wall paper and paint business will be continued by Smith & Sons. The Smith book store is one of the oldest in the city. It was conducted for years by D. A. K. Andrus in North Church Street, and for the past several years has been located in West State Street.

TECUMSEH, OKLA.—W. J. Carson, book-seller, is succeeded by C. B. Hartoon.

TOPEKA, KAN.—A. S. Embree, of the Moore Book and Stationery Co., has sold his interest to Ralph Moore.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

"The Letters of Her Mother to Elizabeth" was written by Mr. W. R. N. Trowbridge.

THE MERRILL COMPANY, Chicago, will publish on the 30th inst. "Chiquita," the romance of a Ute chief's daughter, by Merrill Tles-ton.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just ready a new novel by Montgomery Carmichael, entitled "The Life of William Walshe;" also, a work on "Labor Legislation," by George Howell, the veteran English labor leader.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have just issued from Mme. de Ségur's "Les Malheurs de Sophie" the two episodes "L'Ane" and "La Petite Voiture," arranged with questions in French at the bottom of the page, and with notes and vocabulary.

C. P. FARRELL, 117 East Twenty-first Street, New York, announces that he has appointed C. Cohen, of No. 2 Newcastle Street, London, E. C., the exclusive agent in Great Britain for the sale of the works of Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll.

J. F. TAYLOR & Co. will publish shortly "Billy Burgundy's Letters," that have been published during the past three years singly and in pamphlets. They have now been collected in a book and will be illustrated by several pen and ink artists.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will bring out at once a lower-priced edition for students of Professor Calvin Thomas's "Life and Works of Schiller." The new edition will be unillustrated. The large paper edition, with its photogravure illustrations, will be kept in print.

EDWIN W. DAYTON, 763 Fifth Avenue, New York, has published a volume of poems entitled "The Siamese Twins," by William Linn Keese, well known to the trade through a biography of his father, John Keese, a member of the famous firm of auctioneers, Cooley, Keese & Co., also through his life of "William E. Burton," etc.

FERRIS & LEACH, 29 N. Seventh Street, Philadelphia, have just ready "The Great Issues," being reprints of some editorials, by Wharton Barker, contributed to The American from 1897 to 1900. Mr. Barker, a well-known financier and economist, may be remembered as the Populist candidate for President in the campaign of 1900.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co., Philadelphia, are publishing a volume entitled "Why My Photographs are Bad," by Charles M. Taylor, Jr., who, in addition to the writing of books of travel, devotes considerable time to photography. The volume contains a number of photographs taken correctly, and a number, by way of contrast, that are taken incorrectly.

THE Goupils are to publish a volume commemorating the choicest pictures in the Wallace collection at Hertford House, in London. There will be historical, critical and descriptive text by A. G. Temple, director of the Guildhall Gallery, with a series of large photographic illustrations, embracing reproductions of masterpieces by Gainsborough and Romney, Boucher and Lancret, Van Dyck and Rubens, Delacroix, Corot and others. In fact all schools will be represented.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish, either this month or early in July, for the Archaeological Institute of America, (American School of Classical Studies at Athens), "The Argive Heræum," by Dr. Charles Waldstein, with the co-operation of G. H. Chase, Herbert F. de Cou, J. C. Hoppin and others. The work will be in two volumes with nearly five hundred illustrations. They announce that the plans for their folio edition of Montaigne's essays are now well in hand, and the first volume is so far advanced that it will appear next fall.

D. B. UPPKE, The Merrymount Press, Boston, is issuing "Four Addresses," by Henry L. Higginson, which include the two addresses on the Harvard Union and the Soldiers Field lately printed and distributed by a friend of Harvard University. In addition to the two addresses the publisher has included the one delivered at the mass meeting held at Saunders's Theatre in acknowledgment of the gift furnishing the means to build the Union, and the address on Robert Gould Shaw delivered on the eve of the unveiling of the Shaw Monument. Two portraits of Mr. Higginson are included in the volume, the cover of which has been designed by Mrs. Henry Whitman. It is a book which commends itself to all Harvard men and lovers of Harvard.

THE A. WESSELS COMPANY has brought out a new edition of Farrar's "Westminster Abbey," to which has been added Dean Stanley's chapter on the "Poets Corner." The Coronation visitor will find the chapter on "Dinners and Diners in London," by Lt. Col. Newnham Davis, a practical and interesting addition to Guide Books. It gives a list of the best London restaurants and hotels and much information about their frequenters, their chefs and their specialties. They have added to their list of importations Edward Clodd's biography of Grant Allen—not a mere justification of Grant Allen's departure from conventional in fiction, but a résumé of his entire labors in the field of letters; also Vernon Lee's two admirable volumes of essays, "Genius Loci," and "Limbo," and William Archer's book of criticism, "Study and Stage."

THE REV. DR. B. F. DE COSTA, 132 West Twelfth Street, New York City, will bring out next month a work entitled "From Canterbury to Rome." Dr. De Costa shows the gradual formation of Catholic belief and the steps taken in passing out of the Protestant Communion into the Catholic Church. There are also notes of travel in Europe and the East. In his preface, the author says that he "desires to emphasize the fact that the work is not designed to form an apology. A work of that kind has never entered his thought. . . . What is recorded by no means covers the story of the author's life, though the narrative gives a general idea of his experience; which, being extensive and varied, may prove in some degree worthy of consideration on the part of both Catholics and Protestants. Otherwise the book would never have been written."

"THE BIRDALONE LETTERS TO CHILDREN" is a series of letters that are published by Elder & Shepard, San Francisco, Cal. The publishers' aim is to excite in children a fearlessness and appreciation for nature, and a love for her animals. The letters are written for boys and girls from three to nine years of age. They are supposed to be written by many hands and from many places in the world, actual and imaginative. The letters are facsimiles of writing and are said to be natural in every way, varying from four to eight pages of matter. They are illustrated in Japanese style, done with a brush only, and reproduced from Japanese masters. No two letters will be alike, save the paper, which is to be uniform to permit the collector to bind them or have them properly preserved. Not only are there stories of birds, but also of brooks, flowers, cats, and other animals, and of fairies and historic characters.

THE OPEN COURT PUBLISHING COMPANY, Chicago, announce an Anglo-American edition of the "Book of the Dead." The text will be a revised version of the translation by E. A. Wallis Budge, Keeper of the Egyptian and Assyrian Antiquities in the British Museum, published originally in 1898. The present edition will be in three volumes, and contain not only the complete text of the version, but also all the important vignettes which serve to explain the various chapters and sections. The translation is made from several papyri which combine to present the Theban recension with no less than 190 chapters, some of them in more than one form. Appended are translations of three other recensions—one dating from about 1000 B.C., one from the Græco-Roman period, called the "Book of Breathings," and the third, consisting of only two pages, from the Roman period. Appended to the whole is a useful text of thirty-six pages, double columns.

AUCTION SALES.

JUNE 23-25, 3 P.M.—Early editions, limited editions, Americana, etc. (980 lots.)—Bangs.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplaced, advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," booksellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

The Best Books for Summer Reading

Third Edition Just Ready. 15th Thousand

THE VIRGINIAN A HORSEMAN OF THE PLAINS

By OWEN WISTER

Illustrated by ARTHUR I. KELLER Cloth, $1.50

"It is only at rare intervals that one comes across a book which appeals so directly to one's personal enjoyment."

—Comm'l Advertiser.

"There is not a page in Mr. WISTER's new book which is not interesting. This is its first great merit, that it rouses the sympathy of the reader and holds him absorbed and amused to the end. It does a great deal more for him."

—N. Y. Tribune.

"The book is thoroughly wholesome, robust and sincere. . . . Mr. WISTER possesses a keen sense of humor, an eye for dramatic effect, and the ability to tell a story."—N. Y. Herald.

THE CONQUEROR By GERTRUDE ATHERTON

BEING THE TRUE AND ROMANTIC STORY OF ALEXANDER HAMILTON

546 pp., gilt top, 12mo, cloth, $1.50

"The volume contains the most brilliant and the most restrained work Mrs. ATHERTON has ever done."—The Critic.

"It is a fascinating picture of the life of a hundred years ago, and should be read by every one of taste and intelligence . . . enthusiastic and imaginatively romantic."—New England Magazine.

"Certainly this country has produced no woman writer who approaches Mrs. ATHERTON."—The Post, Boston.

OLDFIELD

By NANCY HUSTON BANKS

A KENTUCKY TALE OF THE LAST CENTURY

Cloth, $1.50

"Rose leaves and lavender . . . with touches about it which recall Miss WILKINS' work."

"A simple tale of the days just before the war, with people so quaint and delightful that they might have lived in Cranford instead of Kentucky. We are obliged to the author for making us acquainted with Miss Judy, a most charming old maid, and with other pleasant people too."—The Sun, N. Y.

DOROTHY VERNON OF HADDON HALL

By CHARLES MAJOR, author of "When Knighthood Was in Flower"

Illustrated by HOWARD CHANDLER CHRISTY

Cloth, $1.50

"A delightful story."
—The Independent.

"A crisp and clever love story."—San Francisco Bulletin.

"As a love story Dorothy Vernon will be judged, and on this ground it will be liked by a multitude of readers."—Town Topics.

The Great Coronation Ode

ENGLAND'S GREATEST POET

has composed one of the finest poems that has appeared in the last ten years, entitled

An Ode on the Day of the Coronation of King Edward VII.

It is the work of a master-mind; a poetical picture of the heart of Britain today, in which her historical past and promised future show mirrored in mingled brilliance.

SUCCESSFUL publisher is one who constantly seeks to get the best value for the least money.

That's why I am a successful bookbinder. Also because I turn out the highest grade of work at from ten to twenty-five per cent. less than anyone else. How do I do it? That is the burning question amongst the trade to-day.

My answer is, "Don't ask the why and the wherefore," but send me your stamps and dummies and I will make up samples which will show the highest character of work and upon which I will give you estimates that cannot be met. My equipment and plant is the finest and one of the largest of its kind in the country. Large output and small profits are the keystones to my success. Don't take my word for these statements. Come and see for yourself.
